

Association Between Stress and Tinnitus: New Aspect

Authors: B. Boecking, P. Brueggemann & Prof. Dr. med. B. Mazurek

Publisher: Springer Nature

In: Otology & Neurotology, Volume 40, No. 4; p. 467-473;
published online: April 2019

Copyright: © 2019, Springer Nature

Abstract:

This contribution focuses on the relationship between stress and tinnitus. While the causal and directional pathways between these constructs continue to remain unclear, this paper uses an allostasis-based framework to discuss associations between physiological stress responses, individuals' idiosyncratic experiences of the tinnitus percept, and psychological treatment approaches.

Related links:

- Online publication: <https://www.ncbi.nlm.nih.gov/pubmed/30870382> and https://journals.lww.com/otology-neurotology/abstract/2019/04000/association\_between\_stress\_and\_tinnitus\_new.38.aspx